Farmworker Justice is a nonprofit organization that seeks to empower farmworkers to improve their living and working conditions, immigration status, health, occupational safety, and access to justice.

www.farmworkerjustice.org
The National Center for Farmworker Health (NCFH) is a private, not-for-profit corporation located in Buda, Texas dedicated to improving the health status of farmworker families. We provide information services, training and technical assistance, and a variety of products to community and migrant health centers nationwide, as well as organizations, universities, researchers and individuals involved in farmworker health.

PARTICIPATION POLL

• Have you heard of the H-2A program?

• Have you served or worked with H-2A workers?

• Do you think the number of H-2A workers in your state is increasing, decreasing or about the same?
What is the H-2A Program?

- Permits temporary employment of foreign agricultural workers, provided:
  - Insufficient number of U.S. workers available
  - Wages and working conditions of workers in the U.S. will not be “adversely affected”
- Job offer (“clearance order”) listed in the agricultural recruitment system
- H-2A temporary non-immigrant visas:
  - Position certified by the U.S. Dept. of Labor
  - Tied to employers who sponsored them
  - Require employer provide: a wage at or above a minimum rate, housing, transportation to and from country of origin and workers’ compensation insurance

• Over 2 million positions certified since 2006
• Total positions certified increasing since 2010
• Mean number per employer increasing up to 2018
• FY 2020, 275,430 H-2A positions were certified

POTENTIAL QUESTIONS TO ASK H-2A WORKERS

• How many years have you worked as an H-2A worker? What is your home country?
• Did you have to pay someone in your home country in order to receive this job?
• Did you receive your contract or work order?
• Are you paid by hour or by piece rate? Are you making the promised wage?
• How many hours of work per week were you promised? How many hours per week are you currently working?
• Did you receive a safety training?
• What happens if you’re injured at work? Do you know who to report an injury to?
• Are you working with pesticides?
• Do you have free kitchen facilities or is your employer providing meals? How often do you get to go to the grocery store? Does your employer offer you transportation there?

Expect it to take time to build trust with H-2A workers – return visits are important!
IDENTIFYING LOCAL PARTNERS

- Workforce Development and Foreign Labor Certification Office
  - Can help connect domestic workers to H-2A jobs, and Foreign Labor Certification Office can clarify questions about H-2A job orders, as well as take complaints.

- Migrant Education
  - Provide ESL and/or additional education classes to H-2A workers.

- Religious Groups
  - Visit H-2A workers to provide emotional and spiritual support.

- Farmworker Law Offices
  - Educate and empower workers about their legal rights, in order to prevent exploitation and abuse.
COMMUNITY-BASED STRATEGIES

• Addressing “specialized needs” improves overall health

• Medical providers may be the only contact H-2A workers have outside of their employment while they are in the U.S.
  • H-2A workers do not qualify for public benefits, except for emergency Medicaid.

• In Michigan, community health workers and Farmworker Legal Services work together to visit camps, make referrals, and educate workers on both medical and legal issues.
  • Presence of medical services can be good “cover” for legal aid outreach workers to speak with H-2A workers, if worried about retaliation.
